“ Dear Janie, Lilly and John:

Hugs to all of you because sometimes words are just not enough. I remember visiting your farm and your mother having a poppy seed cake with lemon filling. It seems she had it whenever we came and yet she didn't know we were coming

I remember play there and once I was on the shed with metal roof and electric line above which we were not to go on and I reached up and got a shock. That was probably good I didn't get hurt. I never told anyone since I was not to be there. And daddy would have had a fit.

But I remember enjoying visiting the farm very much. Your mom was so nice and the kids had the run of the place.

She will surely be missed. Even though my mom was 88 and debilitated by a bad stroke I could still see her as a young mother and great friend and slowly at 80 her memory started to go so she moved to Dallas. I am sure that you remember your mother as I do mine. One does reach an age and physical health has declined so much that the Lord takes you with open arms. There is a season to be born and a season to return to the earth. A season to mourn and a season to rejoice.

May the Lord hold you in the palm of His hand.

I will not be able to attend. All of you were so good about being at my father's, Patty's and mother's funeral. I will be there in spirit.

Love, Peace, Joy and Hope
