“ He was like a second father to me. He had a huge place in my heart, and I respected him very much. I will never forget all the good times we had laughing together. I would listen to all the stories and jokes he would tell me, especially the ones about his navy life. I remember when I would go to work with my dad, he would always be waiting for us in the garage sitting in his chair. He would tell me "In the future when you're grown up if you want to go to war go to the U.S. navy!" He would say it with pride. I will always have you in my mind and I'm thinking to be in the Navy when I'm older. I love you dad

“ I remember all the stories he used to tell us when me and my family would come over to his house. He was like my military grandpa that I never had. He has known me since I was born and has watched me grow through out all these years, as well as his wife. I really miss him, but at least I know he is happy where he is
