“ Dear Ron, Nancy and Abby,

We only now heard of your loss and we are overcome with grief for you all.

Our Jack (my stepson) is now 23. My favorite memory is when we all went fishing in Canada and within the first hour both Jacks had slid down a long muddy hill behind the cabin down to the frigid lake. I was not so well equipped to handle kids since he had been living with me only a short while. So Ron jumped in to save the day, wrangled the boys and swam with them out to the swimming barge in a leaky sinking canoe. I never felt so silly and inadequate, but boy, was I thankful for the "real" Dad to come to the rescue. --Rick and Renee and Jack

“ Dear Nancy, Ron and Abby

I just learned, today, of Jack's passing. I am heartbroken. I look at his beautiful face and I see a wonderful son and brother whose life was too short. Of all the struggles we endure, nothing can compare to the loss of a child. Although I only had the pleasure to meet Jack briefly, I will always remember his bright smile and gregarious personality. May you find strength in the thought that you will, one day, reunite with him and there will be peace and happiness. God be with you through your grief. I am so very, very sorry.

“ No words will ever be able to convey how much I wish better for the loved ones than to have to experience the death of a child. Since my son died Sept 10, 2012 I have been through a range of emotions. Hold onto your faith it will help you endure this. Memories will flood you, emotions will take over. Let them come... it is perfectly okay. Most of all smile at memories made in good times. Remember his smile and laughter. I only wish I could help you more. Jack will always be in my prayers as well as the family who loved him.
