“ Kathy had a smile that was the first thing you would see when she walked into the room. I meet Kathy at a very low point in my life being in a marriage with someone I no longer loved. Kathy gave me great emotional support at a time when I really needed a friend. That is what Kathy always was to me, good times, bad times, Kathy was my friend. As I go through this life I have learned that it is not always clear sailing. On the day you learn you have lost a true friend I know this will be a low, low day in life. I could go on for hours on the kindness Kathy had shown me in the past but I really want to say. Kathy, I will miss you and I know you rest in the Lord's arms today. Keep the faith my friend and I know I will see you again. Kathy as I close this letter I want you to know as I go through my life and on those times you pop into my mind I will always remember, how you looked on your wedding day coming down that aisle at the chapel. I don't think I have ever seen a lady that looked as happy with radiating love as you did that day. Jeff will keep the fight and raise the kids with all the love he has in his heart. May God's love be with the Wheelers always. You long time friend Randy
