“ My Aunt Midge lived across the street from my parents house in Villa Park and my Grandparents lived next door. Midge and my Uncle Ed and their two sons, Kenny and Denny, my grandpaents and my family were like one big family. I felt I had three moms and three dads ...not much wiggle room to get into trouble...but with lots of love. We were a close family in those years. We moved to Villa Park when I was about 7 years old, built three houses, had a huge garden, raised chickens, and very often had a house full of relatives and friends. My Aunt Midge was in the center of all this activity. As we grew older, we stayed close to each other. Midge come to our house every Sunday for dinner and cards. After she moved to Florida we missed her a great deal. After my mother passed away, Midge was the last of the four sisters and she became even more close to us. Susie and I love you Aunt Midge and our hearts go out to your family. I know we well all miss her, but with Gods enduring love, we will some day all be together again in His kindom and plant a hugh garden again. Susie and Gary “ Farewell sweet Aunt Midge .

You gave me my Dad who married your sister when he and Verner came for your infamous Sunday dinner just after WWII: the invitation that you always laughed lasted for months. Mom and Dad celebrated an annual tradition of their first date sitting under your Christmas Tree that year. That date they played with your boy's present of tinker toys while they built an airplane that Christmas Eve.

Our families grew close through the years due to our Scandinavian connection. We had numerous fun days together, and I grew to adore and love you more with each passing year.

Then came your patience while playing arbitrator for siblings of four. The sweet sickling sister that our lived all. You saw each of them to their passage with such loving attention.

I feel so calm knowing that we will meet again one day and you will assist my passing over to Heaven. Greet my family for me until we all meet again. I will miss you and I love you Aunt Midge.
