“ Mrs. Herrmann and my mother both had the same beauty shop appointment for many, many years so I always knew who she was. But, some years back she decided it was time to re-do the Crismon ornaments at church. I did not want to because I don't like crafts but, I didn't have the nerve to tell her no. So we started meeting once a week and worked on them. Thank goodness Phyllis came once and told her "mother, nobody wants to do this!" I will be forever grateful.

Then she and her husband popped up at CPR class; they were so funny. I remember she said I guess if PJ starts having chest pains, I will ask him to lie on the dining table, because I can't get down on the floor anymore to work on him.

The family has my sympathy and prayers.

Pat was my oldest female cousin. I idolized her for her beauty, her wit and her intelligence. When I was a young girl, Pat and P.J. lived in an upstairs apartment in an old home that had been converted while they were students at SWT in San Marcos. My mother and I visited them regularly and I thought they were the coolest people ever. In the last several years as we began to have cousins reunions, Pat and I drew close and enjoyed sharing many emails about family. I will miss her and treasure the memories. To P.J. and family, you are in my heart and in my prayers as you say your goodbyes for now to the matriarch of your family, our beloved Pat.
